COPS CHARGE STAB SUSPECT

CRIME SCENE: Forensic officers at work at the front of Pennymead Tower

A MAN arrested by police investigating a fatal stabbing at a tower block in Harlow was yesterday (Wednesday) charged with murder.

The body of Anthony Farley (36) was found in a flat at Pennymead Tower in the early hours of Saturday.

A second man, who is 47 and also from Harlow, is in a stable condition at Princess Alexandra Hospital where he is being treated for serious stab wounds.

A 54-year-old man arrested on suspicion of murder was released on Saturday evening without charge.

Then late yesterday afternoon police announced they had charged a man with one count of murder and one of attempted murder.

Simon Payne (39), of Spencers Croft, Harlow – who had been questioned by detectives since Sunday – is due to appear at Harlow Magistrates Court this morning (Thursday).

This week residents have expressed their shock at the incident. One, who did not want to be named, said: "On Saturday it was like a scene from CSI."

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

There were lots of police officers, ambulances and several police vans.

"I've lived here for three years and never seen anything like this. It's really shocking because it's really quiet round here."

A woman who lives in nearby Momples Road was feeding her baby in the early hours of Saturday when she heard police arrive on the scene.

"My husband heard the car doors slamming and we sat there looking out of the window," she said. "They taped off the whole area and didn't leave until early on Monday morning."

"Police have been knocking on doors but they haven't told us what it was about. Our fear is that it was a random attack."

Another resident said: "We knew it must have been something quite nasty because of the ambulances and the number of police officers here."

Man (39) accused of tower block murder

"Before we moved here we were told that Pennymead was not very nice but since we've been heard there's been absolutely no trouble, so it's definitely a shock."

Police were called by the ambulance service shortly before 3am following reports that someone had been stabbed. Much of the area outside the tower block was taped off by police on Saturday and Sunday as forensic teams carried out an investigation.

Local residents reported seeing officers examine the steps leading up to the entrance to the block and on grassland between the tower and houses in Quarry Spring.

A post mortem examination confirmed Mr Farley died from a stab wound.

Fire crews battle blaze for four hours

FIREFIGHTERS from Harlow and Old Harlow joined crews from Waltham Abbey, Loughton and Brentwood to fight a blaze on an industrial estate in Nazeing on Friday afternoon.

An investigation is under way to establish the cause of the fire at Stone Shot Farm, off Hoe Lane.

When crews arrived shortly just after 3.30pm, they found a storage unit alight.

At the height of the blaze the fire engulfed two units until it was brought under control in an operation lasting nearly four hours.

A thermal imaging camera was used to check for hotspots as firefighters damped down the site during the evening.

Don't make it easy for the car crooks

POLICE in Harlow this week urged motorists to make sure they do not leave items on view when leaving their vehicles unattended following a spate of car crimes in the town.

More than 20 offences have been reported since the beginning of the month and crime reduction officer Graham Anthony said many could have been avoided.

"It is very important not to leave valuables on display, especially when the vehicle is unattended," he said. "This includes items such as sat navs, iPods, laptops, sunglasses, vehicle radios, CD players, handbags, wallets and tools."

He also urged drivers to check they had locked all doors and windows and had not left the keys in the ignition.

Crimewave teen is back in court

THE fate of a teenage thief who walked free from a court last year after admitting hundreds of offences now rests in the hands of the judge who originally spared him jail.

Bradley Wernham (18) targeted churches, pubs and homes during his six-year crime spree.

But when he appeared before Judge Christopher Ball at Chelmsford Crown Court last October after pleading guilty to 20 offences and asking for a further 645 to be taken into consideration, he was sentenced to just 150 hours of unpaid work.

At the time the judge told Wernham, formerly of Orchard Croft, Harlow: "This is a unique solution and we're holding our breaths. Any breach is likely to result in a jail sentence."

This week Wernham made an application to the court over an incident in January in which he threw a brick through the window of a house in Witham.

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Wernham, who now lives in Chelmsford, originally admitted attempted burglary in respect of the incident but on Monday asked Judge Charles Gratwicke to reduce the charge to one of criminal damage and to change his plea to not guilty.

However, the judge refused both applications and ordered that Wernham should appear before Judge Ball for sentence.

Ian Boyes, representing Wernham, said he would be raising with Judge Ball the issue of "surveillance" of Wernham which followed the controversial decision not to put him behind bars.

Requesting a pre-sentence report, Mr Boyes said: "Certain activities which were supposed to have occurred didn't and he was followed by police."

"Police here in Chelmsford were meant to visit him twice a week and police at Harlow were meant to have taken him under their wing, but they were warned off because he had moved to Chelmsford."

"Senior officers there didn't want Harlow officers involved. He knew he was being followed and flipped and gave them what they wanted. After a media and political focus, he found it difficult."

Wernham had pleaded guilty on April 6 to attempted burglary at Avenue Road, Witham. A further charge of criminal damage to a window pane was ordered to lie on file.

Wernham claimed he had misunderstood the discussion which led to him pleading guilty to the charge but Judge Gratwicke said: "He is no stranger to the courts."

He added that as Wernham had gone into a back garden and thrown the brick from two feet, there had been preparation for burglary which prevented him from reducing the offence to criminal damage.

Jeff performs shop's first cut

FOOTBALLER turned hair stylist Leo Roget called on one of his old celebrity pals to open his new multi-cultural barber shop on Saturday.

Jeff Brazier, the former partner of Big Brother star Jade Goody, was invited to cut the ribbon at the premises of Black & White, in Wych Elm, Harlow.

And around 60 people turned up to take advantage of special opening day rates.

"The idea of a multi-cultural barber shop is great," said Jeff. "I met the boys and all of them seemed genuinely nice guys with a sense of pride in their work who were looking forward to the times ahead.

"I wish Leo and the boys good luck on their new venture and I am sure it will be a big success."

Mr Roget, who played for Harlow Town, Southend and Oxford United, said: "On Saturday we had black, white and Asian people having their haircut, which was great because it showed everybody what we're about."

Churchman on mission to aid quake victims

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PASTOR from Harlow is planning his second aid mission to the earthquake-ravaged territory of Haiti.

Rev Albert Delali-Yevunya, pictured right, of the House of Mercy Baptist Church at Katherines, only returned last month from visiting the country where 230,000 people were killed and many more left homeless following January's disaster.

Mr Delali-Yevunya said that, five months after the earthquake, the country's population was still in desperate need of help.

"Many people are without homes and are living in tents with little food and just one gallon of drinking water per family every few days," he told the Star. "I met a mother whose baby had not eaten in three days.

"If you give someone a bottle of Coca-Cola they respond like they have been blessed because that will be their food for the day.

"There is just one toilet between 200 people and the toilet is just a hole in the ground. People were not only dying of hunger and but also diseases carried by mosquitoes."

Mr Delali-Yevunya is planning a second trip to Haiti in August. His last visit was meant to last a fortnight but ended up being extended by a further week when ash from the Icelandic volcano grounded flights across western Europe.

Last time he took mosquito nets, clothes and food to give to desperate victims of the earthquake. However he found himself in a position to help because he can speak French and could also help counsel traumatised quake victims.

"I met a teenager who could not eat because he had lost his whole family," he said. "There was a child who went to school and came home to find the family was dead but no-one is there for them to talk to.

"Apart from the food, this was the help they needed most."

He added: "If they think you are foreign they will jump on you and ask you for money. Many of the soldiers would not come out of the airport because of the safety fears but I am black and they treated me like a brother. I was able to help without a problem."

Mr Delali-Yevunya is appealing for donations of clothes, bottled water, baby food, toiletries and dry and canned food to take with him. Anyone who can help should contact him on 07984 782111 or email minister.albert@yahoo.co.uk.

Ray supports kit campaign

THE Harlow-based charity Motobility will be kicking off its Get Your Kit On day next Friday – the same day England play Algeria in the World Cup.

Actor Ray Winstone, who lives in Roydon, is supporting the campaign which encourages people to donate £1 and raise sponsorship money for the charity by wearing their favourite football shirt for the day.

"Whether you are at work, school or home, the weekend could always do with a kick start so why not organise a Get Your Kit On fundraising day," said Ray. "Show your support for England and do your bit for charity."

Fundraising director Hazel Gotfrind added: "Money raised will make a real difference to the lives of disabled people who need extra help to pay for adaptations, driving lessons or the car most suited to their needs."

Individuals, schools and companies are all urged to take part. For further details call 0845 166 8786 or email fundraising@motobility.co.uk

County's new air ambulance

The Essex and Herts Air Ambulance Trust has taken possession of a new helicopter.

The MD 902 Explorer, was unveiled in Chelmsford by actor Graham Cole, best known for his role as PC Tony Stamp in The Bill.

The arrival of the new aircraft marks the start of a contract with Medical Aviation Services, which currently runs the Herts Air Ambulance.

A trust spokeswoman for the trust said: "This is an important milestone for EHAAT as, for the first time, both the Essex and Herts helicopters will be the same aircraft type and dual branded in their new livery."

So far, sew good

AN embroidery exhibition and sale will be held at Northbrooks House, in Northbrooks, Harlow, next Friday and Saturday.

The annual event is run by Essex County Council's adult community learning service.

On Saturday there will be an additional exhibition of textiles, crafts and cake decoration.

The exhibition runs from 10am-3pm on both days.

Former MP opens new offices for HomeStart

A HARLOW-based family support charity has moved into its new home at the Latton Bush Centre.

Around 60 people, including former MP and charity patron Bill Rammell, were invited to the ceremony when Home Start Harlow unveiled its new offices.

Lead co-ordinator Sue Drake said the move would enable it to offer services to more families.

Home Start, which provides support, friendship and practical help to parents with young children, had outgrown its former home at Sewell House in The Hides.

"We are a volunteer organisation but we are also a professional organisation," said Sue. "In Sewell House we had to share the lounge with other organisations for meetings and training and our offices were in two bedrooms. We also had to hire a hall for our weekly for weekly family group session. Now it's all under one roof."

The charity is also currently seeking to recruit two or three new trustees to help manage the scheme.

"Hopefully this voluntary role will appeal to those that may have a couple of hours a week to spare and want to contribute something to their local community," said Sue. "It's a really worthwhile cause."

For more information about becoming a trustee, call Sue on (01279) 451669.

Police ready to tackle World Cup troublemakers

FOOTBALL fans have been warned to expect swift justice if they cause trouble during the World Cup.

With the competition kicking off tomorrow (Friday), Essex Police has dedicated part of its website to the tournament.

It covers various topics including plans to deal with troublemakers, advice to publicans, keeping possessions safe and a section for victims of domestic abuse.

It also quashes rumours in the national press and on social networking sites that police will be banning supporters from wearing football shirts in pubs and hanging flags on their homes and cars.

Chief Superintendent Tim Stokes said the force will be working to make sure fans and families can watch the games in safety, whether they chose to do so at home, at the pub or in town centres.

"Residents with no interest in the World Cup will also be able to enjoy a day out without having to worry about rowdy supporters," he said. "The World Cup is an event that we've policed on a number of occasions and we're very experienced at it now."

"Essex is a very safe place and during the tournament we expect it to be happy, but we would be foolish not to plan for the event where people have too much to drink. If England lose at any point we know that tensions can rise so all our work will be around keeping the peace."

"We work a plan of early resolution so if individuals or groups start misbehaving we will deal with them very early on. There's a guarantee that if you commit disorder we will deal with you at the earliest opportunity and pursue you through court."

The website can be visited at www.essex.police.uk/worldcup.

Cottage owner's fury after probe clears fire crews

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE owner of a 300-year-old thatched cottage which was badly damaged in a blaze eight months ago has criticised the way in which firefighters tackled the blaze.

Brian Lawrence spoke out this week after an investigation by the Essex County Fire and Rescue Service concluded that crews had acted appropriately.

Mr Lawrence's home - Tinker's Cottage in Foster Street, Harlow - went up in flames last September after heat from a felting torch accidentally set light to the property's roof.

Firefighters were on the scene within minutes of the alarm being raised, but Mr Lawrence (68) said the blaze was not extinguished until hours later by which time it had destroyed the roof and first floor.

"When the firefighters came they just wanted contain it and let it die out without doing anything," he told the Star.

"There was a fire burning at one end of my property and firemen standing at the other end holding hoses but doing nothing. I had to go over to them and ask them what they were doing. After I said something they started to douse the flames."

"They set up a tarpaulin nearby and seemed more interested in lunch and where their coffee was. It looked like a training exercise."

Mr Lawrence also accused firefighters of causing needless damage.

"They cut down my back fence which only backs on to a field," he said. "It didn't help access."

Cottage owner's blaze heartbreak

"They also broke windows with axes in rooms where there wasn't any fire, cut a hole in a wall in a part of the building that was not on fire - and then cut down a tree in the garden."

"I haven't had decent answers as to why they did any of this. They were amateurish."

A fire service confirmed the matter was investigated by a senior officer who decided that the service had acted appropriately.

He added: "Mr Lawrence has indicated to us that he is not happy with the resolution of his complaint, so in line with our procedure it has now been referred to the Chief Fire Officer for investigation."

"That process is currently under way and therefore we are not in a position to comment until the matter is concluded."

Crowds flock to charity fun day

A FUN day and five-a-side football tournament held in memory of a Harlow resident who died of cancer has raised more than £5,000 for charity.

Dave Cook (52), pictured right, of Longbanks, passed away last year before he was able to organise a fundraising day in aid of St Clare Hospice.

But his family decided to take up the challenge and on Sunday held a fun day at the United Glass Social Club, in London Road.

Around 2,500 people attended, surpassing the family's expectations.

Sixteen teams paid to take part in the football tournament and more than 130 youngsters showed their dance skills in performances by Dance Fusion, the Kevin Adams Dance Academy and Amethyst Flames Majorettes.

Musical entertainment was provided by local bands Portland Avenue and JB3 as well as DJ Gnasher. There was also a raffle, barbecue and stalls.

Mr Cook's niece, Julia Furman said: "It went brilliantly. So many people turned up that we raised far more than we expected."

"We would like to say thank you to everyone who provided entertainment because they all did it for free."

Proceeds from the day will be split between St Clare and McMillan Cancer Care.

Mr Cook's widow Debbie is also planning a sponsored walk along part of the Great Wall of China in September to raise more money for both causes.

PAH chief steps down to allow 'fresh approach'

THE chief executive of Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has resigned after three years in the job.

Chris Pocklington, left, was the hospital NHS trust's director of operations for four years before taking over as CEO.

Mr Pocklington said he had enjoyed many happy and rewarding years at PAH during which he built up many warm working relationships with colleagues across the organisation.

"During the past three years we have made important operational and financial strides for which we should all be proud, but I believe the time is right for somebody else to build on our achievements and take the organisation forward to the next stage," he said.

Gerald Coteman, chairman of the PAH NHS Trust, said Mr Pocklington's leadership had been "instrumental in turning the organisation around" and had helped the hospital to provide a consistent, quality service to patients.

"Chris is very well respected for his openness and integrity and we respect his decision to step aside at this point as we prepare to move towards foundation trust status," he added.

The vacant chief executive post will be formally advertised later in the year. In the meantime the trust will appoint an interim CEO.

Man ran riot in a 'red mist' of rage

A MAN who flew into "a towering rage" and smashed up the house he used to share with his girlfriend has been spared jail.

Luke Teague, described as normally timid and polite, caused thousands of pounds worth of damage by smashing holes in walls, ripping down shelves, smashing patio doors, breaking windows and trashing ornaments and pictures at the property in Malkin Drive, Harlow.

By COURT REPORTER

The court was told Teague had gone round to the house in the middle of the night hoping to rekindle their romance, but when his ex-girlfriend said she was seeing someone else he lost his temper.

Teague (27), from Rochford, Essex, pleaded guilty to charges of destroying property and common assault. He was given a suspended prison sentence, ordered to complete 120 hours of unpaid work and pay £8,850 compensation and made the subject of a restraining order.

Lesli Sternberg, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, said Teague was intoxicated when he called at the house at 4am on April 10. His former girlfriend let him in to placate him and he went to sleep in the spare room before climbing into her bed and making advances which she rejected.

"He became angry and aggressive and appeared jealous that she was sleeping with other people and he went through her drawers and lingerie," said Miss Sternberg. "He then grabbed her around the throat. She felt she was choking but she managed to push him away and she phoned her mother who phoned police."

Teague punched holes in the bedroom and bathroom walls, smashed the TV screen and destroyed pictures and ornaments. His ex managed to push him outside but he started throwing stones at the kitchen window, pulled the blind and kicked the front door. He also threw rocks at the glass panes in the patio door which broke.

Sarah Lewis, representing Teague, said in mitigation the couple's five-year relationship had ended eight months prior to the incident and he had moved out. They had met once and he hoped they could get back together but she told him she was seeing somebody else.

"He describes a red mist descending and he took it out on the property," she said. "He is a polite and timid young man and this is out of character."

She added he was mortified he had lost his temper and hurt his girlfriend. He now accepted their relationship was over.

Passing sentence, the judge told Teague: "You became extremely violent towards her and the home that you had shared together. Plainly you were jealous of her, upset and distressed at the breakdown of your relationship."

Shop is a first for charity helping smokers to quit

AN independent charity which helps people to stop smoking has chosen Harlow as the location for its first fundraising shop in the south of England.

MP Robert Halfon performed the opening ceremony at the QUIT shop in Broad Walk on Friday.

"Some people find it difficult to stop smoking and it is marvellous that there are organisations such as QUIT which offer a wide variety of initiatives and help people to kick the habit," he said.

The charity helps smokers to give up by providing a range of services including a freephone Quitline, email counselling, publications and a youth service Quit Because.

Shop development officer Katharine O'Brien, pictured above with Mr Halfon at Friday's opening, said: "As a local resident I think it is great news for Harlow that the town is hosting QUIT's flagship shop in the south of England."

"We are keen to recruit volunteers to work in our shops and can offer them a friendly and supportive team environment and the opportunity to gain new experiences."

The shop, which is open every day except Sunday from 10am-4pm, is also appealing for donations of clothes, shoes, accessories, books, CDs, DVDs and household items.

WIN A set of children's books to celebrate Fathers' Story Week

NEXT week (June 14-20) is Fathers' Story Week, an opportunity for all dads and male carers to get involved in their children's learning and development.

And to mark the occasion, The Harlow Children's Centre Network is giving away five sets of books worth £40 each!

The six children's centres in Harlow are part of the Sure Start scheme offering free activities and space to play for children under five, and their families.

Harlow Children's Centre Network will also be putting on sessions especially for dads and male carers so why not go along to make music, make a mess or listen to some favourite children's stories.

Remember, there always have great activities going on at the centres and while the 4MEN sessions are aimed specifically at dads and male carers, you are welcome at all of the activities or just to come and play. To find your nearest centre and see what activities are going on, visit the website at www.surestartharlow.org or call (01279) 772600 or (01279) 773900.

To be in with a chance of winning a set of books, answer the simple question in the entry form, fill in your details in the form and send it to Fathers' Story Week Competition, Harlow Star, PO Box 268, Cambridge CB24 6HF, making sure you tick your child's age range. The closing date for entries is Friday, June 18.

Your dream home for less

Are you a budding entrepreneur?
It's time to shout about your ideas....

A chance to launch your business idea

DO you have a business dream but need help to turn it into reality? Then Launch Pad may be the answer.

Launch Pad, supported by the Star, is a competition for budding entrepreneurs to showcase their business ideas to a panel of experts. It aims to find someone from the Harlow and surrounding area with a winning business idea.

It is open to anyone over the age of 16 living in the town or the surrounding district (including Epping, North Weald, Sawbridgeworth, Bishop's Stortford and Stansted).

The winner will receive dedicated mentoring, advice and guidance from each of the six expert judges to support them in successfully launching their business idea.

Those chosen to take part will present their concepts and these will be streamed online for members of the public to vote for their favourite.

Each week one idea will be selected for a place in the grand final, where the judges will select an overall winner.

Launch Pad was the brainchild of Robert Ellice, managing director of property company Clarke Hillyer and local entrepreneur who, having grown up and worked in the area, wanted to provide a platform for people from the district to showcase their business ideas and have the opportunity to develop and turn them into reality.

The project has been brought to life by Bryan Hunt, who said: "Launch Pad was an idea that came around after we expanded Clarke Hillyer into Harlow.

"From visiting various networking events it was apparent that the main topic of discussion was to try to encourage new businesses to come to the area. This then set the wheels in motion to organise this initiative, which will not only see a brand new business start up in Harlow but will hopefully capture the imagination of the local public. "I sincerely wish that this opportunity for local people inspires them enough to come forward with their ideas. I really feel that this will give someone the boost they deserve to take that next step and launch their new business."

Launch Pad is open to anyone over the age of 16 from Harlow and the surrounding district. The panel of judges are ready to listen to a pitch for any kind of business, but they must be convinced that there is a place for it in the market and that it will be a success. The strongest pitches will demonstrate:

- A unique selling point or place in the market: an idea that serves a need like nothing else.
- Scalability: something that can be scaled up to make real money or benefit a growing number of people.
- Route to market: a clear way the idea can be delivered and marketed.

All applicants will be reviewed and a shortlist of the strongest ideas will be drawn up. The candidates will then be invited to present their concepts to the panel of experts.

Their presentations will be filmed by media course students from Harlow College and then uploaded on to the Launch Pad website. Members of the public will be invited to view the videos and vote for their favourite ideas.

Each week the candidate with the greatest number of votes will win a place in the grand final.

Once all the finalists have been selected, they will get the chance to present to the judges again and this time it will be the judges who decide which of the ideas they believe will be the next big thing.

HOW TO ENTER

Application forms can be completed online or downloaded to print and post. Log on to the dedicated Launch Pad website at www.launchpad-harlow.org to apply and to check out full details of the terms and conditions.

Rare mammal facing threat of extinction

ONE of the world's oldest species of mammal is under threat because their natural habitat is rapidly being destroyed by human activities.

Hispaniolan solenodons are among the rarest creatures on earth and have existed since the time of the dinosaurs.

But now tree-felling in their native island of the Dominican Republic is putting them at risk of extinction.

The solenodon is the size of a rabbit and has a ginger-brown coat. It has big, clawed feet, beady little eyes and a very long, thin nose.

But perhaps its most bizarre feature is that it is the only mammal that can inject poison through its teeth to disable its prey, in much the same way as a snake does.

The poison is not strong enough to be deadly to humans but it allows the solenodon to eat bugs as it moves around the forest at night.

Scientist Sam Turvey, from the Zoological Society of London, told reporters: "There is this concept of the solenodon being a 'living fossil' because it does seem to have retained certain, potentially ancient, features."

One of these features is a groove in its teeth that allows it to inject its venom into its prey.

Aid ships attacked in international waters

SIR, Robert Halfon claims the media presented a "one-sided view" of the disastrous Israeli storming of the Gaza relief ships (Star, June 3).

On the contrary, the media, cowed by what they know will be instant blanket condemnation from all Israeli organisations, presented a mealy-mouthed on-the-fence view of what happened.

Halfon claims that all would have been well if the flotilla had only obeyed orders to stop and unload its cargo. The ships when invaded were sailing in international waters, not in Israeli territory. Those on board were an international group of Palestinian sympathisers and, in spite of Israeli bluster, no weapons were found on board.

The passengers offered no resistance on five of the ships. On the sixth a small group waited with improvised weapons – sticks and poles. The Israeli commandos had machine guns as well as tasers and rubber bullets which, according to a British passenger, they fired at anyone a bit slow to obey orders.

This has been a PR disaster for Israel, as well as a tragedy for the families of the dead. Instead of bowing to pressure and ending the blockade they say they are intent on boarding future ships in the same way.

Here are some questions for Mr Halfon. By what right does Israel blockade Gaza? Why has Israel closed nearly all the crossing points into Gaza, effectively depriving the population of food and other necessities, as well as stopping them working outside Gaza? Why have they confiscated cement and wheelchairs, among other things, from the flotilla when they know that these things are needed for rebuilding homes destroyed by Israel's frenzied attack on Gaza last year and to enable those disabled in the attack to become mobile?

And why does Israel claim that everyone who speaks out against their persecution of the Palestinians is anti-semitic? This is a question of human rights.

Israel is incredibly rich compared to other states in the region, being dependent on US support. It also possesses many nuclear weapons. Why is it afraid of people who have nothing?

Barbara Burge
Seeleys, Old Harlow

Illegal blockade is a barrier to peace

SIR, It comes as no surprise that Robert Halfon, a member of Conservative Friends of Israel and a former supporter of Ariel Sharon, should come out in support of Israel's commando attack on an aid ship heading for Gaza attempting to break the illegal blockade.

Mr Halfon says that he deplores the loss of life and injuries to both sides. Yet it escapes his notice that most of the injuries and all of the deaths were peace activists aboard the aid ship.

Early in 2009 Israel's military launched an all out war against the people of Gaza. Weeks of bombing resulted in the deaths of more than 1,300 people, 20,000 buildings destroyed and left 1.5 million inhabitants of Gaza economically stranded.

Eleven people in Israel died as a result of rocket attacks fired from Gaza.

Unless the economic blockade is lifted to enable much-needed supplies and construction materials to help the Palestinian people rebuild their shattered lives it is unlikely that peace and security for either the Israelis or the Palestinians can ever be achieved.

Mary Solomon
Churchfield, Harlow

I made no secret of runway opposition

SIR, I thank James Gamble for his concern about Stansted Airport (Letters, June 3). The important thing to note is that a second runway would not just have meant disruption to our villages but to Harlow as well.

However, I understand Mr Gamble's concern about jobs. The reality is that most airlines did not want a second runway because it was economically unsustainable. The current runway is only being used at 50 per cent capacity.

It should be noted that just 5.5 per cent of jobs at Stansted Airport have gone to Harlow residents because the airport's recruitment focus has switched to north and east London, offering free/subsidised coach travel for new employees.

Many airport employers have also focused

Council shouldn't spend our money on trips to Europe

SIR, As a former member of the European New Town Platform I am aware of how successful our relation has been in securing European money for local projects in the past.

The process was that Harlow would make joint bids with other towns in Europe and that's why, via our old regeneration unit, we joined the ENTP.

But the EU changed the application process over three years ago and I now question why the council is still a paying partner, let alone the president. Our Conservative-run council, under the leadership of Andrew Johnson, appears to have decided that Harlow officers time and resources can be used to support the role of the president of the ENTP. It appears the only source of information about this decision is from a Tory twitter website.

Currently, Harlow Council has lost it way on the development of the town centre. It has been a major player in the development of the much-delayed Leisurezone and has overseen the destruction of most of the local community group by withdrawing funding and support.

We also know the Government is talking about a massive reduction in spending on the public sector.

So with all this happening, why is the leader of Harlow Council the president of a European organisation that we, the local taxpayer, have to pay for with no visible benefits to Harlow? Why is he spending money he claims the council hasn't got on trips to Greece with a council officer?

When I was part of the ENTP the president was in Brussels every month attending some meeting or formal do. So who pays for our leader's travel and hotel bills? And while he's away who is in charge?

This is simply crazy. We have a Tory council that claims it has no money and is closing down services but its leadership can afford overseas trips.

The solution is simple. Either Mr Johnson gives up his role as president and work for Harlow or he should be sacked as the leader of Harlow Council to enable him to spend more time in Brussels.

Councillor Tony Durcan
Rundells, Harlow

on overseas recruitment, particularly attracting employees from central and eastern Europe.

As most people in Harlow and the villages well know, my opposition to a second runway at Stansted is shared by thousands across the constituency. It is something I campaigned for in three general elections. Ultimately, issues like this must be settled democratically at the ballot box. For many years the Conservatives have promised to scrap the second runway at Stansted. I stood openly on that pledge and am glad that the Government will keep to it.

Leisurezone sign a capital offence

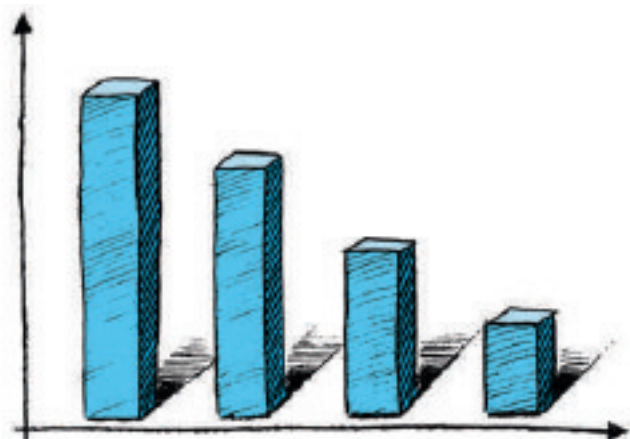

SIR, With regards to last week's Star report about the Leisurezone ("Delay hit centre will open this month," June 3), I read with interest that it is described as a jewel in the crown, state of the art and the envy of neighbouring towns.

Surely if this is the case, shouldn't the name of our great town that adorns the side of this new sports complex have been spelt with a capital 'H' and not a lower case 'h'?

Is it just me that thinks that if we are going to promote our town, then let's at least get the grammar right and spell it with a capital letter.

Hop on board the school bus

BUS company Arriva is going back to school with the launch of a new initiative which will turn one of its buses into a classroom.

The School Bus activity is being run by Arriva Shires and Essex for primary schools in and around Harlow.

The aim is to provide an entertaining and educational experience for year six children with a bus-themed lesson held on board.

The Arriva School Bus will teach children about buses using fun facts and figures, games and information about the environmental benefits of bus travel. They will also be instructed on how to use and behave on buses. Linsey Frostick, customer service manager for Arriva Shires and Essex, said: "Bus travel is something that captures the interest of children and we know from experience that many year six children will start to use the buses on their own for the first time once they leave primary school.

"Therefore, we have created the School Bus which will provide a class with a fun, learning experience while communicating the benefits and etiquette of bus travel."

Now's the time to be part of the magic of Midnight

MANY of the hundreds of women taking part in next weekend's Midnight Walk have a personal reason for doing so. One of them is Heidi Rowley.

"Sadly, on April 14 this year, my darling dad and best friend passed away whilst in the loving care of St Clare Hospice," said Heidi.

"He was diagnosed with terminal lung cancer in April 2009 after having suffered a cough for a few months. He had a chest X-ray which revealed a shadow on his lung. This was the worst news our family could have ever expected and a complete bolt out of the blue.

"But dad was a strong man and he fought with all his might for as long as he possibly could. When he died he was only 12 days away from his 71st birthday. He died on the day before my daughter Rebecca's 14th birthday, but we know he was with us when we celebrated it for her.

"As if this wasn't enough for us to come to terms with, my uncle – Cyril Cutts – also passed away at St Clare on May 19 after battling colon cancer for the past year. Everyone was so kind and caring, not only to dad and Uncle Cyril but to the families as well.

"They could not do enough to make our last days with them as comfortable and as happy as they could be. We hope to raise as much as we can for St Clare as we have so much to thank them for. Without them, we wouldn't have the wonderful memories of Dad's last days."

Heidi, from Waltham Abbey, will be joined on the walk by Rebecca and her other daughter Amy, as well as her best friend Donna Lilly who also lost her father to cancer.

The Midnight Walk takes place in Harlow on Saturday, June 19. Registration officially closes tomorrow (Friday) but because of a late rush of applications the organising team has extended the deadline and is urging anyone who missed out on signing up to do so today!

The walk, which is supported by the Star, starts from the Water Gardens in Harlow town centre at 10.30pm and heads for Old Harlow before returning to the Water Gardens. The distance covered is 10km.

To take part you must first register. Registration costs £15 and is open to everyone aged 14 or over. Entertainment on stage will start at around 8.30pm with music and games from Ten17, zumba dancing and face painters. The pre-walk warm-up will be led by a team from Harlow Sportcentre, starting at around 10.15pm.

"People take part in the Midnight Walk for different reasons," said hospice communications manager

Giles Wright. "Often it's because they know someone who has been cared for by St Clare or has been touched by cancer."

The care provided by St Clare is free of charge for patients and their families. The NHS currently contributes a quarter towards the £2.3m annual running costs but the hospice relies on events like the Midnight Walk to raise the rest.

"We hope to raise as much as we can for St Clare as we have so much to thank them for," said Heidi. "Without them we wouldn't have the wonderful memories of Dad's last days.

"We had Goodnight Sweetheart playing in his room and in his last moments the cherry blossom outside blew off of the tree. It was beautiful and so special."

"Ladies walk, men support," said St Clare events fundraiser Tracy Stratford. "As well as hundreds more ladies to take part in the walk we are looking for men, maybe husbands or partners of walkers, to help out as marshalls. If you are able to spare a couple of hours, please give me a call on (01279) 773750."

History 'lesson' is a right royal treat

REVIEW

The Hollow Crown
Harlow Theatre Company, Victoria Hall Theatre

FIRST staged by the Royal Shakespeare Company in 1961, The Hollow Crown is described as "an entertainment by and about the Kings and Queens of England".

Nearly 50 years later it proved to be as entertaining now as it was then.

The simple staging using two red backcloths, each embossed with a golden crown, and the minimum of furniture and props, coupled with atmospheric lighting which bathed the stage in a royal red glow provided the actors with a perfect setting for their pieces.

A variety of speeches, poems, letters other writings and songs were performed faultlessly by the talented cast members, each offering an insight into a particular king or queen's character from William 1 through Henry VI11 and up to Queen Victoria.

For this to work and hold the audience's interest, the actors must ensure that every word is spoken clearly and develop the character they are portraying. All the cast did this supremely well.

Martin Bedwell, Simone Perry, Richard Parsley, Gordon Whittle and Jane Hawkins contributed some memorable moments but the main highlights were Wendy Grant's portrayal of Queen Victoria at the age of 18 describing her coronation and Paul Johnson as James 1 railing against the evils of tobacco.

Both fully inhabited their royal personas and their accomplished verbal dexterity held the audience spellbound.

Bob Mallison and Jane Hawkins were in good voice with their musical contributions, ably accompanied by Stella O'Shaughnessy on keyboards. But the music really took off when the whole company sang a rousing version of The Vicar of Bray.

Brenda Jones' expert direction provided some interesting tableaux and ensured that the minimum of movement was used to good effect.

She and her talented cast provided an enjoyable and informative evening. If only history could always be so entertaining!

Awards night celebrates young talent

TALENTED youngsters with a flair for the arts were recognised for their achievements at a glitzy awards ceremony.

A total of 33 promising young performers from arts, music and drama groups across Harlow were presented with Jack Petchey Achievement Awards at Harlow Playhouse.

All the winners were nominated by their peers and teachers, with each receiving a medallion, a framed certificate and a cheque for £200 for their groups.

The evening featured performances from nine local arts organisations, including Phoenix Theatre School, inclusive drama group Razed Roof, resident Playhouse dance school Hip Hop Pop, Harlow Rock School, Harlow Ballet Association and Livewire. Presenting the awards was Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who described the ceremony as a fantastic evening. "The Jack Petchey Foundation is all about achievement and commitment and transforming lives," he told the audience.

"Tonight we have seen the amazing talent of the young people in Harlow getting the recognition they truly deserve."

The charity was set up in 1999 by Jack Petchey to help develop the potential in young people in London and Essex.

Since the foundation started giving out awards in 2003, youth arts organisations in Harlow have received a total of £113,400 between them.

Celebrating 10 years of giving, Mr Petchey said: "I am very proud of our awards scheme because it sums up exactly what the foundation is doing; making a difference to young people whatever their circumstances."

BROOKLYN'S FINEST certificate 18 2h12m

NINE years after guiding Denzel Washington to Oscar glory for his portrayal of a corrupt Los Angeles cop in Training Day, director Antoine Fuqua ventures on to the mean, crime-riddled streets of New York.

With a dispassionate eye, he goes on patrol with the men and women who promise to uphold the law and then occasionally bend it beyond recognition.

Sal (Ethan Hawke) is a narcotics officer who is desperate to move house so that his pregnant wife Angela (Lili Taylor) doesn't have to keep breathing in the mould which is aggravating her asthma. Unfortunately, he doesn't have all of the money for a down payment and time is running out to secure the house of his family's dreams.

Eddie (Richard Gere) has been a cop for more than 20 years and he is in his final week before retirement. Disenchanted with the job, he begrudgingly agrees to mentor rookie cop Quinlan (Jesse Williams) for his final seven days, revealing how emotionally scarred he has become by working the streets.

Meanwhile, undercover cop Tango (Don Cheadle) has sacrificed everything to get close to kingpin Caz (Wesley Snipes) and his drugs network, even serving time behind bars to prove his bad boy credentials.

Understandably, Tango wants to be reassigned but his lieutenant, Hobarts (Will Patton) needs him to betray one of the people closest to him.

The fates of the three cops become entwined, culminating in a night of betrayal and bloodshed.

Brooklyn's Finest draws strong performances from Hawke, Gere and Cheadle, each of whom faces a crisis of conscience and must pay the penalty for his actions.

Screenwriter Michael C Martin, who co-wrote the television series Sleeper Cell, treats his morally conflicted characters with an even hand, showing how their moral compasses become misaligned in a world of unrelenting violence.

For these public servants the end usually justifies the means and justice turns a blind eye to the myriad abuses of power, so long as the guilty end up behind bars or on a cold metal tray in the morgue.

The characters' frustrations come through loud and clear - they have no choice. Desperate times call for desperate measures.

Fuqua punctuates the action with explosions of graphic violence, painting New York a deep shade of red by the time the end credits roll.

Good men fall, bad men survive and nothing really changes.

The write way to find true love

LETTERS TO JULIET certificate PG 1h45m

SCREENWRITERS Jose Rivera and Tim Sullivan serve up a steaming spaghetti of clichés, cultural stereotypes and unintentional laughs in this romantic comedy about one young woman's quest for everlasting love in sun-dappled Verona.

Writer Sophie (Amanda Seyfried) is poised to marry chef Victor (Gael García Bernal) and commit the rest of her life to this passionate workaholic. The pair embark on a trip to Italy where Victor heads off into the countryside to source ingredients for his restaurant, leaving Sophie to sightsee.

During a leisurely stroll, she visits the balcony made famous by Shakespeare in Romeo and Juliet and is surprised to see dozens of tourists penning letters to the ill-fated lover and fixing them to the wall.

Soon after, a group of women known as the secretaries of Juliet collect the missives and reply to the lovesick strangers.

Sophie offers to help and stumbles upon a long-lost note from 1957 which simply demands her words of wisdom. But American is shocked when Charlie Smith (Christopher Egan) arrives in Verona to berate the secretaries for encouraging his grandmother Claire (Vanessa Redgrave) to seek out her soul mate from all those years ago.

The young woman feels guilty for dragging Claire to Italy and offers to accompany the old woman and her grandson on their quest. As the trio travel across the country, Sophie feels a spark of attraction to Charlie and she begins to question whether her heart truly belongs to Victor.

WORLD CUP 2010

Fab haunted by the one thing he can't control

“I hope the best players are fit. This is what concerns me

FABIO Capello has a concern which has nothing to do with John Terry, nothing to do with the behaviour of his players. Nothing even to do with the WAGs.

There is an issue that keeps the Italian awake at night, one that could undermine his shot at football's ultimate prize.

Capello believes that if his England side can stay fit and fresh from the moment they begin their campaign against the United States in Rustenburg on Saturday, right through to the World Cup final in Soccer City on July 11, the Three Lions could be crowned world champions.

“There are a lot of things I am not concerned about,” said the Italian. “But I hope the best players are fit. This is what concerns me.”

Capello suffered one blow early on, when David Beckham suffered the Achilles injury that ended his chances of participating in a fourth World Cup. A few weeks later, it was the sight of Wayne Rooney lying stricken on the turf in Munich that sent a shudder down his spine.

Mercifully, Rooney's ankle problem was not as serious as it first appeared.

But, after naming his 23-man squad, Capello had that sinking feeling again when skipper Rio Ferdinand (right) hobbled out of the competition, his participation ended by a knee injury suffered towards the end of England's first training session at their Bafokeng Sports Centre base.

It was little surprise to hear the Italian mumbling about England being ‘cursed’ as he passed the captain's armband to Steven Gerrard and called Michael Dawson into the squad.

However, it would be stating the obvious that, on a list of players Capello does not want to be without in South Africa, Rooney's name would be at the top, in big bold letters, underlined in red ink.

“Rooney is really good. He is really important for us,” said Capello, an admission that did not need to be spelled out. “He is one of the best players in the world now. It is difficult to compare players. Lionel Messi dribbles and has imagination. Cristiano Ronaldo is fast and shoots from long distance. Kaka has to arrive in the area from midfield.

“Rooney can play alone like a centre-forward. He holds the ball very well. He dribbles. He can shoot from long distance. He can score goals with his head. The difference between these players and Rooney is that he presses a lot. He runs a lot.”

Yet that heart-stopping night in Munich was a reminder that Capello requires a Plan B, should injury or suspension rob him of his talisman for a short period.

The options, though, are not extensive. Gerrard fills a similar position for Liverpool but has not had the best of seasons. Jermain Defoe has pace and maturity, but does he have the talent?

These are the selection issues Capello must wrestle with, ahead of that tournament-defining opener against the United States when victory will propel England along a path that should avoid any heavyweights until a potential quarter-final meeting against France.

Not that Capello is taking anything for granted. “I respect the USA,” he said. “Usually, during the World Cup, the USA is a good team. They play well and are not easy to beat.”

Should England fail to top the group, Capello will be dumped on to a far more hazardous route which is likely to have Germany and Argentina lying in wait before the semi-finals.

But Capello knows the dangers that lie ahead. It has already been factored into his plans.

What he detests is the great unknown.

That is why he will only breathe easily once he can look around the dressing room and see his key players have made it in one piece.

Are you a leaseholder.....

Disappointed with your Managing Agent.....

For many years residential leaseholders have had conflicting opinions concerning Managing Agents and with just cause. In recent months a survey was carried out on residential leaseholders to ascertain where Managing Agents are falling short with their clients requirements. The survey highlighted, basic courtesy, failings when carrying out day to day issues and dealing with unqualified and incompetent staff, even with ARMA membership (The Association of Residential Managing Agents) there is no legislation in place that prevents Managing Agents employing staff without the appropriate qualifications.

Carringtons can be your alternative

As Managing Agents, we are fully aware of the issues throughout the industry which highlights Carringtons policy that all our Property Managers are IRPM qualified (Institute of Residential Property Management) as per ARMA recommendations. Over the years we have increased our portfolio purely by recognising our clients requirements, not only by fulfilling our obligations from the outset, but ensuring our commitment and are mindful of our responsibility to our clients homes and investments. To ensure Carringtons stay one step ahead of our competitors, we also provide free advice outside our clientele, ensuring prompt information to any queries.

WORLD CUP 2010

5 WONDER GOALS

>> 1986: MARADONA, ARGENTINA v ENGLAND

ARGUABLY the best goal in World Cup history. Maradona picked up a pass close to the halfway line and dribbled his way around various sets of flailing England limbs, before dummieing Peter Shilton and sliding the ball into the net.

>> 1998: OWEN, ENGLAND v ARGENTINA

TEENAGE sensation Michael Owen came of age with a World Cup wonder goal. He received the ball on the halfway line from David Beckham, surged towards goal, catching the opposition defence flat-footed, before smashing home the goal of the 1998 tournament.

>> 1958: PELE, BRAZIL v SWEDEN

PELE was just 17 but wasted little time in showing the world his outrageous talents. He gave Brazil a 3-1 lead in the final, chesting down Nilton Santos' cross, flipping the ball over Bengt Gustavsson with his thigh and volleying clinically past goalkeeper Karl Svensson

>> 1998: BERGKAMP, HOLLAND v ARGENTINA

WITH the match at 1-1 and seemingly heading for extra time, Bergkamp struck clinically. Frank de Boer's superb long pass dropped perfectly towards the former Arsenal man. Bergkamp controlled it, moved inside his marker and stabbed the ball into the net.

>> 1994: OWAIRAN, SAUDI ARABIA v BELGIUM

SAID Owairan ensured the footballing minnows of Saudi Arabia left the 1994 finals in the United States with their heads held high and with one of the great World Cup goals in the bag. He beat four Belgian players before blasting the ball past Michel Preud'homme.

>> Why Rooney doesn't feel he's a legend . . . yet

This is what I have to do before I can join the greats

WAYNE Rooney has a view on football achievement. When everyone – whether respected television pundits, fellow players, managers and the fans, match-going and armchair – has offered an opinion about his talents, Rooney retains a refreshingly detached air.

Former Manchester United team-mate Cristiano Ronaldo would respond to accolades with a knowing nod of agreement, even when he was being described as the best player in the world.

Rooney generally sidesteps talk about his form, insisting it is for others to judge and he is more interested in the team's performance anyway.

But one sunny day in Qatar last November, just before he captained his country for the first time in a meeting with a Brazil side that remains the benchmark for the rest, Rooney did reveal his own opinion on such matters. It was not startling, nor particularly controversial.

Rooney has nothing against George Best, Johan Cruyff, or even Lionel Messi and his old mate Ronaldo, the pair reckoned to be the best of his generation.

Yet none of them can be considered the best, because they have not collected the best prize.

"If you want to be known and remembered in world football, I feel you would have to win a World Cup," he said.

"Obviously, there are players like George Best and Cristiano Ronaldo who are geniuses, but personally I feel I have to help England win a World Cup to be considered like that.

"It means there is still a lot I need to win before I can catch up."

There is a finite amount of time for any player to achieve the ultimate honour.

Rooney has already missed one opportunity, in Germany four years ago – a tournament that, for him, was disrupted by the broken metatarsal he suffered in an end-of-season clash at Chelsea.

He recovered, but the cost was his sharpness, 'the edge' that makes all the difference at the highest level. And that is why there was such a sharp intake of breath when Rooney went down in the final minute of the Champions League defeat to Bayern Munich at the Allianz Arena.

For one awful moment, it seemed the curse of the metatarsal had returned as Rooney, boot removed, hopped to the touchline.

Mercifully, it turned out to be nothing worse than a sprained ankle, which may have had an impact on Manchester United but left England unscathed.

For Rooney really is the man Fabio Capello cannot do without, even if there was never a chance that he would cushion himself against the threat of injury.

"We have to try to make sure we are at our fittest and the best we can be when the World Cup comes around," he said.

"But playing within myself because it's a World Cup year is not in my nature."

It has always been that way for Rooney.

There will be no holding back, right from the first whistle in the first game against the United States in Rustenburg on Saturday.

"We have been playing well, although we still have to improve our defending as a team as well as our shape and pressure on the ball in the opponents' half," he said.

"But overall, if we play to our potential, we feel we have got a good chance."

Getting Klose
GERMANY'S Miroslav Klose is chasing World Cup history in South Africa. He has scored five times in each of the last two tournaments and, if he repeats it, will equal the 15-goal aggregate of Brazilian striker, Ronaldo. One more, and the record would be his outright.

If you want to be known and remembered, I feel you have to win a World Cup

THE STRIKER

5 CUP CLASSICS

>> 1954 FINAL: W GERMANY 3 HUNGARY 2

A FERENC Puskas-inspired Hungary were expected to lift the trophy and raced into a two-goal lead early on. Puskas was struggling for fitness, though, and Germany needed just 10 minutes to get back on level terms thanks to goals from Max Morlock and Helmut Rahn before Rahn scored the winner (above).

>> 1966 FINAL: ENGLAND 4 W. GERMANY 2 (aet)

England were on the verge of victory until Wolfgang Weber's late equaliser sent the match to extra time at 2-2. Geoff Hurst put the hosts back in front with a shot that bounced down off the bar and was adjudged to have crossed the line (above), while his third in the closing seconds sealed victory.

>> 1970 SEMIS: ITALY 4 WEST GERMANY 3 (aet)

ROBERTO Boninsegna's early goal was cancelled out by a 90th-minute equaliser from Karl-Heinz Schnellinger. The game burst to life in extra time as Gerd Muller edged the Germans ahead, but Italy went 3-2 ahead thanks to Tarcisio Burgnich and Luigi Riva (above). Muller drew his side level again but Gianni Rivera soon grabbed the winner.

>> 1982 GROUP PHASE: ITALY 3 BRAZIL 2

ITALY were inspired to victory by Paolo Rossi, who gave them the lead, but Socrates equalised. A poor pass from Toninho Cerezo gave Rossi an easy chance for his second before Falcao blasted in a second equaliser. Rossi would not be denied and swivelled to add the decisive touch to a Marco Tardelli shot.

>> 1998 SECOND ROUND: ARGENTINA 2 ENGLAND 2 (aet, Argentina won 4-3 on pens)

BOTH sides scored a penalty each before teenager Michael Owen produced a classic World Cup goal, but Javier Zanetti levelled from a clever free-kick. Carlos Roa's save from David Batty's spot-kick completed England's misery.

WORLD CUP 2010

THE MIDFIELDER

He's not a world-class player, but he is a vital cog in the England machine. . .

Barry okay

BARRY'S RIGHT: Gareth Barry's recovery from an ankle injury was a timely boost for the England squad

APPARENTLY John Lewis, the department store, sold a television set every 30 seconds last week as England readied itself for the World Cup.

One of the first pictures those fans will have seen from England's base at the Royal Bafokeng Sports Campus was of Gareth Barry trotting out for training.

The lightest of sessions, it's true, but one of significance in vindicating Fabio Capello's decision to place his faith in Barry, despite the ankle ligament damage from which he continues to recover.

Barry is not one of England's world-class players.

He does not carry the goal threat of Wayne Rooney, nor the dynamic surge of Steven Gerrard. He does not have the class of Ashley Cole or Ledley King.

But he is, nonetheless, a crucial part of Capello's jigsaw.

It is unlikely he will be ready for action before England's second Group C match against Algeria, but his fitness gives Capello the options he believes he needs as the tournament progresses.

Without Barry and following the poor showing in the warm-up matches by Michael Carrick and James Milner, Capello is likely to play Frank Lampard and Gerrard in central midfield with the responsibility of one of them sitting in the holding position when the other moves forward.

The fact they have never performed that well together in that formation has become an old English chestnut.

Not because they desert their posts. They don't. The problem is rather that when they play together they are much more likely to concentrate on lying deep and providing defensive protection to the back four.

They are conscientious, responsible players. But in providing cover they tend to sac-

World Cups are all about balance and timing. Barry can provide England with both rifice the attacking threat which makes them the most dynamic midfield players week in, week out in the Premier League.

And that is where Barry comes in. A Capello favourite since he took over two-and-a-half years ago, Barry's presence in the England midfield allows the manager to let loose both his midfield creators.

At a stroke, England's attacking potency would be doubled.

That is the theory and that is why the sight of Barry on the verdant acres of the Royal Bafokeng Sports Campus gave the squad such a lift.

Actually, it was not the only reason why England should have been boosted as they settled into their South African base.

Capello's side might have failed to impress in the experimental warm-up matches against Mexico and Japan, but they did win both, scoring five goals and conceding two.

They would take that compared to holders Italy, who lost 2-1 in a friendly to Mexico and immediately blamed it on coming down from altitude at their training camp. Tournament favourites Spain, too, were unimpressive, beating South Korea 1-0 with a late goal.

Indeed, the excuses have been flowing from lots of directions.

Not least from Brazil's manager, Dunga, who has been fiercest in criticising the new World Cup Jabulani ball, and who also had a pop at the media, saying: "We've got 300 journalists here who don't want Brazil to win."

Tension is clearly rising.

Yet as the final preparations continue, Capello's concerns appear to be easing.

World Cups are all about balance and timing. Barry, it seems, is on course to provide England with both.

WORLD CUP 2010

THE GROUP C RIVALS

United States

We've Don it again

ENGLAND cannot claim not to have been warned this time. When the national team travelled to Brazil to play in the World Cup for the first time in 1950, they did so with an air of arrogance and expectation that they only had to turn up to claim the silverware.

The USA were certainly not expected to provide much opposition for their group clash in Belo Horizonte and little homework was done ahead of an anticipated mismatch.

What followed was arguably the greatest shock in World Cup history as Joe Gaetjens, a Haitian emigre who had worked as a dishwasher while studying in New York, scored the only goal to sink a team boasting legendary names such as Billy Wright, Wilf Mannion, Stan Mortensen and Tom Finney. They returned home with tails between their legs soon after, excuses at the ready. But this summer there can be none for lack of homework as England prepare to meet the Americans for the first time in World Cup competition since that infamous occasion.

In Landon Donovan (right) the USA have a genuine world talent who has sharpened his game in England this year.

US captain Donovan made a huge impression after joining Everton on a 10-week loan from Los Angeles

Galaxy in January. The 28-year-old added an extra dimension to the Merseysiders' attack, enhanced his reputation by bagging a couple of goals and earned the instant adoration of the fans. Everton would have loved him to stay longer, but not surprisingly Galaxy wanted him back for the new Major League Soccer season.

He could prove a real handful for England in Rustenburg, but Fabio Capello was hardly short of opportunities to check him out during his stint at Goodison Park.

"My experience puts me in a stronger position for the World Cup," admitted Donovan. "I now have the confidence to play against anybody and not fear anyone at all. The amount these guys put in is so draining, both physically, mentally as well as emotionally.

"I have so much respect for the (Frank) Lampards and (Steven) Gerrards who do it day in, day out. It's the same at Everton, when you see players like Baines (Leighton Baines) turning out every week and maintaining standards. It has been fantastic. I never would have expected when I first arrived it would turn out like this."

After ignoring American players in the past, England must now hope their country's league has not given this one too much help.

Slovenia

CAPTAIN Robert Koren is determined to help Slovenia qualify for the knockout stages and banish the memory of their only previous World Cup experience.

With optimism high for the 2002 tournament in Japan and South Korea, Slovenia were soon on the plane back to Europe after three successive defeats left them pointless at the bottom of Group B.

The squad was also torn apart, with star player Zlatko Zahovic sent home following the team's opening game after a row with coach Srecko Katanec.

But Koren is keen to stress things are different now – both on and off the pitch.

Slovenia, populated by just two million people, showed harmony and belief aplenty as they shrugged off the tag of underdogs to qualify for the finals by winning on away goals in their play-off with Russia.

Ex-West Bromwich Albion midfielder Koren, released by the club in the summer, said: "Eight years along and nobody is thinking too much about what happened in 2002.

"We are playing a different style. Before we only had one star in the team, Zahovic. But now we try to play more like a team and don't have one star.

"We are very good friends

Koren on a mission to scratch an 8-year itch and have a good team spirit. It's a massive difference. You can't compare these two teams, it was a long time ago when that happened. We just want to show the people that we are good enough and claim enough points to get through the group stage."

To achieve their aim, Slovenia must break their World Cup duck and beat Algeria at Polokwane.

But Koren believes anything is possible. "A couple of months back when we met Russia in the play-offs, everybody was saying we will lose this game. But we are in the World Cup and we deserve that," he said.

"Everyone is saying England is the favourite and in England they are saying USA is the second favourite, but we are not bothered about these things. We will try to win each game and get some points. Every game starts at 0-0."

Algeria

HEADING BACK TO THE BIG TIME: Madjid Bougherra says the Algerian team have made their country happy

Madjid out to make the wait worthwhile

THE distance between Algeria and South Africa is 6,891km. But Madjid Bougherra knows that for the people of his homeland the World Cup, at times, must have felt like it was a million miles away.

It has been 24 years since the north African nation last graced the world's greatest football competition, earning their place for this summer when they beat bitter rivals Egypt in a dramatic tie-breaker in November.

Les Fennecs had back-to-back World Cup campaigns in 1982 and 1986, with their first involvement best remembered for their controversial exit as West Germany and Austria appeared to engineer the result that would take them through at Algeria's expense.

It has been a long wait to take their place once more at world football's top table but, for Bougherra, this summer's journey to South Africa will have been worth the wait. "For Algeria, the World Cup is immense because, for 24 years, we were not at the World Cup," said the Rangers defender.

"You can see everywhere the happiness we give to the country.

"I have responsibility, and every player for Algeria has responsibility, because we are like a model for the young people in Algeria. Now we need to be careful about what we say, what we do, because all of Algeria loves us."

As for the opposition he said: "Brazil, Spain and England are, for me, the three teams who can win the World Cup.

"It is good to play with players such as Wayne Rooney, Steven Gerrard and Frank Lampard. For all of the Algerian people and the team, it's going to be a good test.

"We play football to play this game – that's it."

THE DEFENDER

KING'S COURT: Ledley King faces the media in the countdown to England's opening game

King: I'll repay Capello debt

LEDLEY King has vowed to repay the "great faith" shown in him by England head coach Fabio Capello.

King is a strong contender to partner John Terry in England's opening World Cup match against the United States in Rustenburg on Saturday after skipper Rio Ferdinand's withdrawal.

But the centre-back was a controversial choice in the Italian's final 23 because of his fitness issues, and is indebted to Capello for allowing him to stick with the fitness programme he uses at Tottenham to overcome his long-term knee problem.

King seldom trains, spending the bulk of his time in the gym and swimming pool, but Capello has been prepared to stick with this tried and trusted method.

King said: "It's difficult for him (Capello) and for me coming into this situation.

"I felt awkward at first, but I couldn't have asked for more. He's been brilliant.

"I've not been involved with England and they've not seen how I work throughout the week.

"It's been a bit of a shock to the players – and maybe the staff – but the manager has been brilliant.

"He's told me to do what I would normally do. He's not a manager who is going to show favouritism to anyone.

"It was flattering that he showed great faith in me. For him to show that faith in me is a great compliment, and I'm hopeful I can repay that.

"It's great for me to have that much respect from somebody of his magnitude, a manager who has been there and done it all."

King admitted he was happy to be able to concentrate fully on England after a testing season at White Hart Lane.

He said: "I suffered quite a few muscle problems and then I would have the problem again when I was coming back.

"It's difficult to then go away with England, play on a Wednesday and then be fit for Tottenham on a Saturday.

"That was a bit of a problem. Now the season is finished and I can concentrate on England."

King will only be seen occasionally on the training ground and he said: "It's something that I'll speak to the manager about to see which day he feels is important for his preparations for the team and I'll try to be out there for that day.

"Normally I would get out there on the Thursday and just do some work with the fitness coach to get my legs going and then train with the team on Friday."

For him to show that faith in me is a great compliment, and I'm hopeful I can repay that

WORLD CUP 2010

THE BETTING

» England are odds-on to top their group and third favourites to take the title, while Rooney is a top tip to be the leading scorer . . .

Want to bet on it?

SOUTH Africa 2010 will mark England's eighth trip to the World Cup finals since 1966 glory and is probably their best chance of emulating that famous success.

Qualification has never gone so smoothly – nine wins, a European Zone high 34 goals scored and just one meaningless loss in Ukraine.

Playing conditions during the Rainbow Nation's winter should be ideal, and coach Fabio Capello could hardly have chosen an easier draw had he hand-picked the opposition himself.

The Three Lions are 4-11 at best with Sky Bet to top the Group C table and 7-4 to claim maximum points against USA, Algeria and Slovenia.

If all goes to plan, they will face Serbia or Ghana in the last 16, probably France in the quarter-finals and then Brazil or Holland in the semis.

Obviously, there will be injury fears – particularly with talismanic striker Wayne Rooney – but England remain solid third favourites at 6-1 with bet365 to lift the trophy.

Rooney bagged nine goals in as many qualifying games and is 2-1 at Sky Bet to be the team's leading scorer in South Africa, with Frank Lampard (left) available at 6-1, Jermain Defoe 7-1 and Steven Gerrard 9-1.

Of course, hopes have been high before, only for the Three Lions to come up short. And for those who think they will again falter, the stage of elimination betting offers plenty of value. England are 13-2 with sportingbet to finish as runners-up, 9-2 at Coral to go out in the semis, 7-2 in places for a quarter-final exit, 7-2 with Sky Bet for a second-round loss and 8-1 not to qualify from their group.

Spain head the outright betting on 4-1, having finally shed their tag as under-achievers in major tournaments with Euro 2008 success before following up with 10 straight wins to qualify for South Africa.

Brazil are 5-1, followed by England and Argentina at 8-1, Holland 14-1, Germany and Italy 16-1 and France 18-1.

Punters can get 4-9 with bet365 for a European country to prevail, 11-5 a South American side obliges and 10-1 for the rest of the world combined.

David Villa is 10-1 favourite to be the overall leading scorer, with Lionel Messi and Rooney on 11-1, Luis Fabiano and Fernando Torres 12-1 and Cristiano Ronaldo 18-1.

VIVA VILLA:
Spain's David Villa is the favourite to be the leading scorer

Are you a leaseholder.....

Disappointed with your Managing Agent.....

For many years residential leaseholders have had conflicting opinions concerning Managing Agents and with just cause. In recent months a survey was carried out on residential leaseholders to ascertain where Managing Agents are falling short with their clients requirements. The survey highlighted, basic courtesy, failings when carrying out day to day issues and dealing with unqualified and incompetent staff, even with ARMA membership (The Association of Residential Managing Agents) there is no legislation in place that prevents Managing Agents employing staff without the appropriate qualifications.

Carringtons can be your alternative

As Managing Agents, we are fully aware of the issues throughout the industry which highlights Carringtons policy that all our Property Managers are IRPM qualified (Institute of Residential Property Management) as per ARMA recommendations. Over the years we have increased our portfolio purely by recognising our clients requirements, not only by fulfilling our obligations from the outset, but ensuring our commitment and are mindful of our responsibility to our clients homes and investments. To ensure Carringtons stay one step ahead of our competitors, we also provide free advice outside our clientele, ensuring prompt information to any queries.

They do not thrill as once they did, but there is a balance and determination about their play. This is a Brazil side which makes up for the peripheral flair of old with drive and desire

NO FRILLS: Despite having the likes of Kaka (left) in his side, Brazil boss Dunga (below) has forsaken their traditional samba-style for a more pragmatic approach which could lead to World Cup glory on July 11

JUST mention of the names brings a rush of excitement. Cristiano Ronaldo, Fernando Torres, Xavi, Wesley Sneijder, Didier Drogba, Wayne Rooney, Kaka and the incomparable Lionel Messi.

Has there ever been a World Cup in which so many individual stars promise to illuminate football in its brightest hue? It is doubtful.

We have had 1966 with Bobby Charlton, Eusebio and Franz Beckenbauer. We have had 1970 with Pele and Jairzinho.

There was Johan Cruyff in 1974, Mario Kempes in 1978, the best and worst of Diego Maradona in 1986, the tears of Paul Gascoigne in 1990, Zinedine Zidane in 1998, the beefy Ronaldo in 2002 and none in particular apart from Italian defender Fabio Cannavaro in 2006.

But this time in South Africa – injury and fitness permitting – football's most prominent names are set to dazzle.

It is the perfect stage for Portugal's Ronaldo, whose reputation has dipped slightly since his blistering years at Manchester United, mostly because his current club, Real Madrid, are going through a transitional phase.

The goals, however, have still come with impressive frequency, the free-kicks are still rifled home via impossible trajectories and he is still capable of winning matches virtually single-handedly.

His problem is that Portugal do not have the strength in depth to support him.

The same could be said of Drogba, who could spring a surprise or two with the Ivory Coast under Sven-Goran Eriksson after a disappointing African Nations Cup campaign. They are ones to watch.

Then there is Rooney, the England striker who carried Manchester United with his prolific strike-rate for most of the season. With Rooney, England have a real chance of progressing past the quarter-final stage which has been their settling ground for the past decade.

He does not have the tricks of Ronaldo, but his work ethic is unrivalled and his influence in lifting those around him could be crucial to a Fabio Capello team which lacks real imagination.

If Rooney clicks into one of those purple patches of the past season then England have the firepower to trouble the world's best.

But then we could say the same of Messi and Argentina.

Messi is the best footballer on the planet, the successor to Pele and Maradona. That is certain. But can he do a Maradona and take Argentina all the way?

Ironically, that depends on Maradona, the coach of Argentina who has yet to demonstrate that he can motivate and organise a side with the same instinct with which he played.

For that reason the odds are weighted against Argentina. The fact is that Messi will have no Andres Iniesta. No Xavi to supply his ammunition. Messi will sparkle – how could he not? – but the chances are he will not lift football's greatest trophy.

Teams win World Cups, not individuals.

And while the likes of Italy and Germany will wear their tournament hats as usual and teams such as Holland could be dangerous, there are two sides which stand head and shoulders above the rest – Brazil and Spain.

True, Spain have a habit of folding like a cheap suit whenever a tournament reaches its business end. But this time they have a formidable spine.

A classy goalkeeper in Iker Casillas, a defence run with the experience of Carles Puyol, the inventive midfielders in Iniesta and Xavi, and up front a strikeforce led by Torres and David Villa.

It is more likely Brazil will work their magic once more.

It is not the greatest Brazil side. In terms of panache they pale in comparison to the great side of 1970. But they have a manager in Dunga who has staked his reputation on pragmatism.

They do not thrill as once they did, but there is a balance and determination about their play. This is a Brazil side which makes up for the peripheral flair of old with drive and desire.

That is why the smart money says that on July 11 in Soccer City, Johannesburg, they will win their sixth World Cup.

WORLD STARS: The likes of Cristiano Ronaldo (right), Lionel Messi (centre) and Fernando Torres will be crucial to their country's chances

Debut makers

ONLY two countries – Slovakia and Serbia – are appearing at the finals for the first time. Serbians have featured in past World Cups for the unified Yugoslavia and latterly in the 2006. Slovakia are making their debut in the competition following the break-up of Czechoslovakia in the early 1990s.

Open top Audi's a true supercar

With an interior that is first class for the quality of construction and the clarity of design, and the accuracy and response of the steering and gearbox that build immense confidence in the driver, the Audi R8 Spyder has the motive power of a true supercar. MATT JOY reports

IF Audi was an old school friend, it would be one that you catch up with on Facebook after 20 years only to find that they've done annoyingly well for themselves.

Slick, successful, desirable and as a result impossible to hate – even though you want to – the truth is that the German firm knows how to push the buttons of potential car buyers.

But its greatest trick is doing that for someone spending £15,000 just as well as for someone spending nearly ten times that amount.

The R8 broke the rule that supercars have to be made by tiny, specialised manufacturers to be taken seriously. And then they went and made it even better by adding a 10-cylinder engine.

And now there's even more. Say hello to the R8 Spyder, which adds fresh air fun to the V10's thrills.

Turning the R8 Coupe into the Spyder hasn't sacrificed its good

FACT file

Audi R8
Spyder 5.2
FSI R-tronic

£117,155

ENGINE 5.2-litre petrol delivering 518bhp and 391lb.ft of torque
TRANSMISSION Six-speed automated manual driving all four wheels
PERFORMANCE 0-62mph 4.1s / top speed 194mph
ECONOMY 20.3mpg
CO₂ EMISSIONS 338g/km

looks either. Arguably better looking than the original, the Spyder does without the prominent side blades and instead flows neatly into the curvaceous rear.

It's hard not to be a little flash in a low-slung two seater with this much presence, but the Spyder avoids being over the top. You're more likely to meet respect and enthusiasm than outright jealousy; it's a thing of genuine beauty after all.

Unlike the Coupe, the Spyder comes only in full-blooded V10 form. The 5.2-litre unit is similar to that found in the Lamborghini Gallardo and produces a spectacular 518bhp and 391lb.ft of torque.

There's a choice of transmissions, too, with a six-speed manual or six-speed automated manual dubbed R-tronic. Either way, the Spyder has the motive power of a true supercar and the performance figures to back it up: roof up or down, it will hit 194mph and blast from 0-62mph in only 4.1 seconds. Don't mistake this docility for dullness, though. You can cover hundreds of miles in a single, easy-going stint and then a slam-dunk of the accelerator will punch you down the road in an instant.

Civility takes a back seat to thrills as the V10 engine struts its stuff, bellowing a delicious wail as it tears around to a spectacular 8,700rpm. Flip the right paddle, the R-tronic transmission seamlessly slots in the next gear and the physical assault happens all over again.

Punch the Sport button and the Spyder responds even more urgently, sharpening the actions of the gearbox and steering.

This is an Audi of course, and such monstrous power can only be distributed through the legendary Quattro four-wheel drive system. That means superb traction whatever the weather, allowing the Spyder to use more of its performance more of the time. The power is also distributed with a heavy bias towards the rear, giving it a feel closer to that of a classic rear-drive car but with much greater reassurance.

Its surefootedness and the accuracy and response of the steering builds immense confidence in the driver, whatever their level of skill. Like all the best cars, the Spyder flatters the person behind the wheel.

You get plenty more of the standard Audi brand values, too. The interior is first class for the quality of construction and the clarity of the design, while the specification isn't lacking either. The standard Bang & Olufsen audio system will keep you amused should you ever tire of the V10's music, while features like sat-nav, Nappa leather and heated seats boost the luxury feel. It even has microphones mounted in the seat belts to allow you to chat on your Bluetooth-connected phone even with the roof down. They really have thought of everything.

So what of the big question then: how much? Well you might want to be sitting down for this, as the six-speed manual version is £111,955 and you can add a further £5,000 for the R-tronic gearbox. But that gets you a largely hand-built, aluminium and carbonfibre supercar that's stunning to look at, a sensational drive and also easier to live with than some far more humble machinery.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

B & T Motor Salvage

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our own recovery vehicles and issue a Certificate of Destruction from the Department of Vehicle Licensing Authority via our direct link to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

>> DARTS Dan Wood has won the U-19 knockout competition of the Harlow and District Premier Darts League.

Wood beat James Jennings 3-0 in the final after having earlier beaten last year's champion Douglas Thomas.

Wood played superbly throughout and did not concede a leg in the competition.

The event at the Great Parndon Community Association centre also saw Lynn Adderson beat Lin Green 3-2 to win the ladies knockout competition.

Dave Galloway (captain, White Admiral) defeated Damian Green (captain, Moot House Arrows) 3-0 in the final of the licensee and officials knockout category.

>> SQUASH Harlow Squash Club second team slipped to 2-1 home defeat against Potters Bar Squash Club second team in division four of the Herts Squash League.

Third string Keeley Peacock was Harlow's only winner. She recovered magnificently after losing a very close first set 13/15 to win the next three 15/11, 15/7, 15/7.

First string Vinh Tram lost the first set 12-15 and then recovered to win the second 15-4 but lost the next two sets 10-15, 10-15. Second string Peter Izatt went down 7-15, 10-15, 15-9, 10-15.

It's a washout as rain floods pitch

Epping Foresters 228-8, Harlow Town I 32-1
Herts and Essex Cricket League, division one

HARLOW Town's match at Epping Foresters was finely poised before rain forced an early abandonment on Saturday, writes David Rimmer.

The visitors were 32-1 from eight overs in reply to Epping's 228 when the elements intervened, leaving the pitch flooded.

It was the second consecutive week bad weather had thwarted Town.

Earlier, Town withstood an early onslaught from the Epping batsmen to restrict them to 228 on a small ground with a quick outfield.

Ashley Alderson (3-48) and Marc Lowers (2-41) were Town's main wicket takers.

In division three, Harlow Town II (123-3) overcame close rivals Potter Street (122) by seven wickets.

Town took control with the ball, with Dan Farmer (3-39) and Dave Pistorious (4-28) helping to dismiss Street for a small score.

Town knocked off the runs in just 23 overs with Charlie Coleman (44 not out) and Darryl Pettengell (34 not out) finishing the job despite the threat of rain.

Harlow Town III also completed a comprehensive 10-wicket victory over Stansted Hall III in division six.

Town bowled Hall for just 59 with Shaun Alderson claiming 5-5 from five overs before knocking off the target without losing any wickets.

● THE inaugural Proudlock Cup T20 Competition is being held at Ash Tree Fields this Sunday.

Four teams are in a twenty-20 shoot-out in an event that is raising money for the St Clare Hospice

The event begins at 10.30am with Harlow playing Harlow Town and Dunmow playing Birchanger.

The final will start at 3pm and there will also be a third place play-off match.

Hawks boss is keen to keep Maxwell on board

HARLOW Town boss Kevin Warren is hoping he can keep former Raith Rovers midfielder Ryan Maxwell at Barrows Farm. Maxwell was signed in the middle of last season but hardly played after he sustained back and neck injuries in the 2-1 win at VCD Athletic in March. Warren would not reveal the name of the other club chasing Maxwell. "I would like to have Ryan on board," he said. "He is a very passionate player."

Whatever happens to Maxwell, Warren has signed six players since being appointed Hawks manager last month. In addition, goalkeeper James Hasell, defender Mark Taylor and midfielder Shaun Gliddon are also returning. However, the Hawks boss is still waiting to find out whether he will sign a central defender from a Step 3 club. Warren would not say the name of the player but he hopes to know either way by this weekend.

Tennis coach's 'Slam' success

JOHN MORRIS (S)

A TOP tennis coach from Harlow is celebrating after one of his players was part of a pair that won the French Open girls doubles final in straight sets. John Morris, from Ram Gorse, coaches Hungarian player Timea Babos (17) at the Gosling Sports Park in Welwyn Garden City. Babos partnered American Sloane Stephens to a 6-2, 6-3 victory over their Spanish opponents Lara Arruabarrena-Vecino and Maria-Teresa Torro-Flor in the final. Babos and Stephens did not drop a set in the Championship held at Roland Garros. Morris told the Star: "I am really pleased. I am the first British coach to coach a player to a junior Grand Slam success for 14 years since Martin Lee and James Trotman won Wimbledon in 1996. Heather Watson and Laura Robson have won junior slams but have been coached by foreign coaches." He added: "Their [Timea Babos and Sloane Stephens] constant first big strikes enabled them to get to the net and dominate their opponents throughout." It was a special moment for Babos as she and Britain player Heather Watson lost 10-8 in a tiebreak at last year's final. Morris said: "This achievement was a long time in coming. Timea had been runners-up in two tournaments in Paris last year and Australia this year. "She fully deserved it after all her hard work and commitment to training." Morris is hoping Babos will go one better than her performance at last year's Wimbledon when she reached the junior semi-final. "She has the game for grass and I expect her to go all the way this year. She can serve over 200km (125mph) per hour," said Morris. "Her forehand and return of serve have improved most in the past six months. Those are areas of the game we have really worked on." Morris also coaches British number 13 Tara Moore (17) who is trying to qualify for Wimbledon.

Hotshot Ahmed wins batting prize

Harlow 292, Stanford-Le-Hope 167
Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League, division two

AHMED Khawaja's fantastic start to the season has resulted in him winning the PiriPiri cricket bat prize after being the first batsman to score more than 500 runs at 1st XI league level in the Shepherd Neame Essex League. Khawaja, who joined Harlow from Old Brentwoods in the close season, had scored 442 runs before Saturday's home game against Stanford-le-Hope. He scored 115 and will receive the prize later in the season. Harlow batted first and, after slipping to 14-2, Khawaja received most support from skipper Jason McNally with the pair adding 161 for the third wicket before the latter was dismissed for a fluent 65. Khawaja was the fifth Harlow wicket to fall after putting on 77 with Nino Calvino, who struck 31. With keeper James Butler chipping in with 24, Harlow compiled a big score of 292 before they were bowled out. Neil Samwell (4-17) was the most successful bowler for the visitors. Stanford's target was 293 but this was reduced to 217 from 37 overs (from 50) due to a rain break during the visitors' innings. By the time of the stoppage Stanford, thwarted by a keen Harlow bowling attack, were out of contention having lost eight wickets.
